MARIANNE FAITHFULL

in concert

Saturday December 6th 2014 | 8:30 pm | Monte-Carlo Opera Garnier

Celebrating a 50-year career with a worldwide tour. Marianne Faithfull, an icon of British pop will be performing on the Opera Garnier Monte-Carlo stage on December 6th.

In 1964, at the age of 17, Marianne Faithfull's life will change forever after meeting the Rolling Stones manager during a London party. A few months later, she records her first album. As Tears Go By, one of the very first songs written by Mick Jagger and Keith Richards, goes straight to the British top ten immediately upon release.

After both highs and lows in her musical career – she also appears on the silver screen -, she returns in 1979 with a new album « Broken English ». The folk tunes of her early days are replaced with more edgy songs such as Why Do Ya Do It?, Working Class Hero or Broken English. Her voice, now gravely and dark, becomes her trademark.

Marianne Faithfull also surprised audiences after recording the Kurt Weill and Bertolt Brecht opera « The Seven Deadly Sins » in 1988. She performs it for the first time live at the Salzburg Festival in Austria. The success of the piece is so great that it reaches the top of classical charts.

Marianne's latest album was released in 2011. « Horses and High Heels » marks her return to writing, with the participation of Lou Reed and Laurent Voulzy, to name a few.

Marianne Faithfull's 2014 world tour, celebrating her 50-year musical career will take her to Monaco for an exceptional concert, on Saturday December 6th!
